

DOLE SAYS HAWAII
CAN STAND ALONE.

SECRET ANSWER TO CLEVELAND IS NO SECRET.

United States Was Not Consulted In Establishing the Provisional Government and Has Nothing To Do With It Now That It Is Running

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—President Dole's reply, which is not to be given out except by Cleveland, denies that there was interference by Minister Stevens. It says that the provisional government never submitted any matter connected with the revolution to the United States, and is amenable to no foreign power, and therefore must refuse to consider Willis' proposition.

Secretary Gresham expressed surprise and doubts as to the correctness of Honolulu advices. He is mystified as to how Dole's answer was made public.

WHY HORNBLLOWER WAS BEATEN.
His Dangerous Attitude Concerning Big Corporations Was Against Him.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—William B. Hornblower, nominee for the vacancy on the United States supreme bench, received a knockout blow yesterday. At the meeting of the senate judiciary committee Senator Hill was instructed to make an unfavorable report from a majority of the committee on the nomination. While the report does not make confirmation absolutely impossible, it is thought his fate is settled.

The fight on Hornblower has been determined. While that gentleman is a capable lawyer, his attitude toward corporations and the apprehension that he might overturn important decisions affecting railroads caused him to be subjected to the sharpest sort of criticism, and the action of the committee is the outcome.

IN THE HOUSE.

Speaker Crisp Secures a Vote on the Rule to Consider the Tariff Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The usual controversy between Mr. Boutelle and the speaker came up immediately after the reading of the journal yesterday, and gave rise to more excitement than on any previous day. Mr. Reed and Mr. Boutelle spoke in favor of considering the Hawaiian resolution, and the latter again made the point that it was a question of privilege. The speaker repeated his ruling, made in the fifty-second congress, holding that the question of consideration could not be raised against a resolution emanating from the committee on rules and that it took precedence over all other questions. When the speaker finished he requested that Mr. Boutelle should take his seat, which he finally did, declaring he did so under duress.

The yeas and nays were ordered on Mr. Catchings' motion for the previous question on the resolution reported by him last Friday, fixing the time for considering the tariff bill, and resulted as follows: Yeas, 189, nays 0—ten more than a quorum—and the previous question was ordered.

Before the vote was announced on the motion of Mr. Catchings to order the previous question Mr. Reed (rep.) of Maine, asked whether any members who were under arrest had voted. He stated that he had been informed by the sergeant-at-arms that about thirty members had been arrested. He asked whether those men had a right to vote. He thought it would be rather anomalous to allow members under arrest vote.

The speaker replied that he had official notice that any of the members had voted.

Mr. Reed thought the house should first act on the cases of the members who were in contempt of the house and then determine the question whether they should be allowed to vote.

The speaker ruled that the house could not deprive a member of his vote except by expelling him or putting him in prison; as long as he was in the house he was entitled to vote.

Mr. Wilson (dem.) of West Virginia, chairman of the ways and means committee, spoke briefly on the resolution submitted by Mr. Catchings fixing the time for the consideration of the tariff bill. He expressed himself as willing to allow the whole of this week for general debate and two weeks from next Monday for debate under the five-minute rule, and that the vote should be taken on the 29th instead of the 25th. To this suggestion unanimous consent was asked and given.

Mr. Reed (rep.) of Maine submitted a motion to amend the resolution reported by Mr. Catchings, as follows: "To recommit with instructions to report an order of consideration which will give more days for debate and give the right to amend each paragraph as it is reached in reading." On this motion the yeas and nays were ordered and the motion was disagreed to—yeas, 184; nays, 6.

HAWAII IN THE SENATE.

Chandler Wants an Opinion on the Appointment of Commissioner Blount.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—After the routine business in the senate yesterday, which occupied nearly an hour and in which there was nothing of public interest, Senator Chandler offered a resolution directing the judiciary committee to inquire and report its opinion as to cases in which the President may constitutionally send agents or commissioners to foreign countries without the advice and consent of congress.

"Let that resolution lie over," said Senator Gorman, and the resolution went over until to-morrow.

Then Senator Hoar's resolution (offered last week) calling on the secretary of the treasury for a statement as to payments to Mr. Blount as commissioner to Hawaii was laid before the senate, and Senator Gorman moved its reference to the committee on foreign relations. The Hoar resolution and the motion of reference gave rise to a discussion. Senator Gorman and Senator Gray arguing that such expenditures are always made out of the secret service fund, and that inquiries as to details have never been made. Senator Hoar said that all he wanted to know was if Mr. Blount was paid out of this fund, or was he paid as other ministers are paid?

Finally the Hoar resolution was referred to the committee on foreign relations.

Then Senator Turpie offered a resolution, which went over, declaring among other things that foreign intervention in the political affairs of the Hawaiian islands will be regarded as an act unfriendly to the government of the United States.

The Frye resolution as to Hawaii was laid before the senate and went over until Wednesday.

Senator Davis gave notice that on Wednesday next he would address the senate on Senator Frye's resolution on the Hawaiian affair.

Numerous petitions against the reduction of the tariff on many articles were presented.

New Mexico Must Be Patient.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Gen. Wheeler, chairman of the house committee on territories, has now no hope of getting up the bill for the admission of New Mexico until after the tariff bill is disposed of, and then it will be the regular order. The bill for the admission of Arizona is more fortunately situated, and, having already passed the house, the territorial delegate says there is no doubt of favorable action in the senate.

IOWA SOLONS GATHER.

Opening of the Legislature at Des Moines Yesterday.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 9.—The regular biennial session of the twenty-fifth general assembly began yesterday, when the senate was called to order by Lieutenant Governor Bestow and the house by Oliver E. Doubleday, senior member from Polk county. S. J. Vangilder of Warren county was chosen temporary speaker of the house, and J. S. Crayford of Cass temporary clerk. After the appointment of committees on credentials both houses adjourned until to-morrow. At the republican caucus in the afternoon Henry Stone of Marshall was nominated for speaker by acclamation, all opposition having been withdrawn several days ago.

The republicans have overwhelming majorities in both the senate and house, and as a consequence the election of a senator of that political faith to succeed James F. Wilson, whose term expires March 3 of the coming year, is assured. This, however, will not be the only important business of the legislature. The prohibitory law, which has been largely instrumental in keeping the hawkeye state before the country in recent years, is to be considered, or, rather, reconsidered.

As for the senatorial candidates, their names and numbers are legion. The list is naturally headed by the present incumbent, James F. Wilson. Then there is the veteran John H. Gear, at present member of the house of representatives from the first district; Representative John F. Lacey of the sixth district; Representative William P. Hepburn of the eighth district; Representative George B. Perkins of the eleventh district; Attorney-General John Y. Stone, A. B. Cummings, a well-known attorney of this city, and Railroad Commissioner L. S. Coffin, who was nominated for the governorship by the prohibitionists last fall and was induced to withdraw in the interest of the republican party.

ROSTER CASE DELAYED.

Prosecution Given More Time to Prepare for Trial.

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 9.—The roster case against Gov. Peck and other state officials will be called for trial in the last week in February, in the Dane county Circuit court, and the Dows are admitted as plaintiffs in the case. Judge Siebeckler so ordered last evening after listening to arguments. The prosecution won a victory on both points, the defense making a vigorous fight against granting any further time for the preparation of the case for trial and still more strenuous efforts against permitting the Dows to be joined as plaintiffs in the case.

WHITE CITY GOES UP IN FLAMES.DETAILS OF THE WORLD'S FAIR
CONFLAGRATION.

Music Hall, Casino and the Peristyle Destroyed—Manufacturing Building Damaged—One Fireman Killed and Two Injured—Heavy Financial Loss.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—The new year began its mission of destruction at the White City yesterday by invoking the assistance of fire, quick to destroy in minutes the work of months. About 6 o'clock the fire started, either in the Peristyle or the Casino building, and the wind coming from the southeast off the lake whipped the fire into great sheets of flame which encircled the Casino, and soon it was a mass of embers. The Agricultural building, just west and scarce a stone's throw away, was imperiled. But the fire fed upon material closer at hand. Having wrought its will upon the Casino, it leaped with strides northward along the Peristyle. It sped along the grand gateway to the Fair, like a molten stream. Great pieces of cornice fell with a crash, the corrugated columns fell; and ragged, scorched ends of beams sway and fall. The fire, unstay, and so hot it can scarce be approached, moves on northward, and Music hall at the north end of the lake front colonnade is afire.

From this point and from the Agricultural building and all along the west front or landward side of the Peristyle the fire department has, been combating it, fighting it desperately but without avail. The combustible, summer-dried material of which the Casino and Peristyle were built, were like tinder. The staff, even the heavy moldings, afforded no protection. Heated cornices and plaster coating cracked away and, exposing the pitch-pine beneath, gave rich provender for the fire to consume.

The sight was most stupendous, glowingly magnificent when the arch of the Peristyle was reached. Flames enveloped it with a surge, and the great Quadriga, typifying "The Triumph of Columbus," horses, chariots, figures and all, were wrapt in a fiery mantle—and the grandest group of statuary at the World's Fair crumbled, fell away into blackened dust. Just to the west of the Peristyle, on the landward side, in the grand basin, stood Columbia, French's gigantic statue, and she, gold-robed, looked all aglow in the flame, which so scorched and imperiled the figure that great gold flakes scaled off and fell into the lagoon, throwing up clouds of steam.

All this time the flames were leaping along the Peristyle. The firemen essayed to stop the progress of the fire ineffectually. The Music hall being reached, it was swept away in a few moments. But while it was afire the great disaster of the fire occurred, which at once imperiled the White City, all of it.

When the fire was at its height the flames shot up and were twisted and whirled over toward the Manufacturing building, the great, thirty-two-acre edifice, where the liberal arts of the world were exhibited at the Fair. Great chunks of red-hot embers and blazing beams were upheaved as if impelled by an explosion. The flames shot westward toward the great building, and showers of coals fell upon the roof. The cry was that the Manufacturing building was on fire.

The flames jumped clear across the broad avenue between Music hall and the Liberal Arts edifice. The southeast corner of the great structure seemed to be pelted with a hail of fiery flakes, but the flames in the building, the token it was afire, appeared away above the corner so fiercely attacked. A flame, small but menacing, first showed itself away up on the roof of the main building, underneath the roof walk on the east side or lake front, and up near the center of the building, 700 or 800 feet from the seething fire that was destroying Music hall. So soon as this jet of flame was discovered, firemen rushed to the rescue, bringing up hose by the long flight of outside stairs at the southwest corner of the building.

The fire was well fought in the Manufacturing building, where such valuable property and so much of it was endangered. At one time the firemen had fire to fight in all parts of the great building, and they were constantly in peril of their lives. Falling beams and chunks of burning wood and great panes of glass jeopardized them every moment of the prolonged and desperate fight.

At 11 o'clock there came a resting spell. At midnight, though still slowly burning, or smouldering in the roof, the great fire was over—and the White City, though marred beyond recognition, had not wholly vanished. Roughly estimated, when the breathing spell came, it is claimed that the loss on buildings will reach about $800,000, while the estimate of losses on the exhibits cannot be accurately formed until the cases containing the stored goods can be examined.

The fire started in the second story of the Casino, the building at the south end of the Peristyle. For two weeks the building has been tenanted. It cannot be reckoned, therefore, that the fire was other than designedly started, or mayhap some tramp has domiciled himself in the building and accidentally started the woeful conflagration.

BARDEEN'S STORY OF SEEING BIG DAN.IMPORTANT EVIDENCE IN THE CRONIN CASE

Relates How He Saw Coughlin With the Wagon Containing the Murdered Doctor's Body—His Testimony Somewhat Shaken.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—An unprecedented throng filled the corridor outside of Judge Tuthill's courtroom yesterday before the trial of Dan Coughlin was resumed. It was said that Mrs. Susie Horton, who declares she saw Coughlin and Foy near the Carlson cottage on May 12, would take the stand and tell her story. It was said, also, that Frank Bardeen, who claims to have seen, in the glare of a powerful electric search light, Dan Coughlin walking on the sands of the lake beach at Edgewater behind the wagon containing the trunk in which was supposed to be the remains of Dr. Cronin, would appear and state this fact under oath.

After the examination of some minor witnesses, Bardeen was called to the stand. His evidence was the same as has already been outlined. He swore he saw Coughlin and two other men in a wagon where the murdered doctor's body was found, on the night of May 4. He was on duty at the water works there, and as he heard the wagon approaching he turned on a searchlight out of curiosity to see who was abroad at that time of night, and by this he saw them distinctly. He fully identified Coughlin as the man he had seen sitting on the box. Cross-examination rather disturbed him and he contradicted himself on some occasions, but the weight of his testimony remained.

ARE IN THE WOODS.

ASHLAND, Wis., Jan. 9.—The desire to file on Omaha lands has reached the proportions of a general craze and has spread to such an extent that some residents of Ashland and surrounding cities have abandoned their business long enough to rush over to the local office and make application for some choice quarter sections which the land locators may have looked up for them. Nearly all of the applicants yesterday were residents of Ashland. All those applying at the land office must file notice of appeal within thirty days or else their application goes for nothing. Women were present and also made applications. The filing of each application is rejected, but in the case lands are opened these applicants have the first chance at a cost of only $1. Land locators are reaping a rich harvest, as the majority of those making application for lands have not the slightest idea of where they are situated. Those locators have card maps of the land in question and check off quarters as they are filed upon, thus keeping a record. The rush will probably continue for some time. When the squatters begin to arrive for the purpose of making application for lands upon which they have squatted the real contest will begin.

HIS LABOR IS LOST.

Hawaii's Government Rejects Mr. Willis' Propositions.

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 9.—The steamer Warrimoo, which arrived here last night, brings advices from Honolulu under date of Jan. 1.

All is quiet at Honolulu. The provisional government has a force of men under arms, and the palace is strongly fortified. Minister Willis received a bulky batch of dispatches. He immediately entered upon renewed intercourse with Liliuokalani. Houses were being searched for concealed arms.

The 16th the alarm was revived by the British minister receiving permission from the government to land marines from H. M. S. Champion for the protection of British interests. Capt. Rooke stated that he expected the queen to be restored by the American forces and would land fifty marines. The situation is absolutely unchanged, the provisional government being in power and Minister Willis waiting for instructions.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Secretary Gresham set at rest last night the sensational rumors as to happenings in Hawaii. The report was current here that the Corvair brought news that Minister Willis had landed marines, that fighting had followed, and that sixteen persons had been killed. Referring to this story Secretary Gresham said it was pure fabrication.

Schaefer Beats Slosson.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—Jacob Schaefer met George F. Slosson in the opening game of the billiard tournament last night, and when Mark Matthews laid down the bridge at the conclusion of the game the score read: Schaefer, 600; Slosson, 206. The score in detail was as follows:

Schaefer—1, 0, 7, 0, 36, 0, 21, 19, 30, 216, 106, 35, 19, 18, 12, 30. Total, 600; average, 37½; high runs, 216, 103, 80.

Slosson—4, 0, 2, 13, 19, 1, 67, 1, 19, 33, 4, 0, 40, 4. Total, 206; average, 13 11-15; high runs, 67, 40, 33.

To-night Frank Ives will meet Slosson and to-morrow night those two cue combatants, Schaefer and Ives will lock horns.

Mrs. Lucy Hughes, insane from grip, jumped into a well at Oskaloosa, Iowa, and was drowned.

PAINTER MUST HANG.

Governor Altgeld Refuses to Interfere Further in the Case.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 9.—George H. Painter, sentenced to death for the murder of Alice Martin, will be hanged Friday next. Gov. Altgeld has refused to interfere in the execution of the sentence. He reviewed the testimony, briefly covering the evidence that

GEORGE H. PAINTER.

Painter had frequently threatened and choked the woman and was positively seen in the house the night she was murdered. He said that leaving out all other affidavits, the state had made a clear case against Painter. He made the strong point that even if all the new evidence was true Dick Edwards, who it is claimed really committed the murder, had not been traced to the house the fatal night. If he could entertain a doubt he said he would grant a commutation, but he could see no defect in the case nor ground for interference.

CORBETT-MITCHELL FIGHT.

The Duval Club Going Ahead with the Preparations.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—When the news reached New York yesterday that Attorney-General Lamar had declared that the Mitchell-Corbett prize fight could not be held in Florida the sporting element was in confusion. Many telegrams were sent to Jacksonville asking what the position of the Duval club would be in the face of this last announcement. Good lawyers say that the club can prevent legal interference, but it would be folly for its officers to betray the strength of its position to the enemy. President Mason of the club left for New York last night, and upon his arrival there he will open an office for the sale of seats and boxes for the fight. He will also establish agencies in all the large cities of New England and the middle states. Later on an office will be opened in Chicago and perhaps at other western points.

MRS. LEASE TO BE EDITOR.

Will Take Charge of a Populist Daily at Omaha, It Is Said.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 9.—Mary Ellen Lease, it is reported, is going to remove to Omaha and take editorial charge of a populist daily. For the last year the populists of Nebraska have been working to secure sufficient money to start an evening daily and already several thousand dollars have been subscribed for the paper. The question that has agitated them has been who will edit it. At last it was suggested that Mrs. Lease would be the proper person. She was corresponded with and it is said that she replied accepting the offer. The paper is still far in the distance, but it is said that it will be started, as the state organization in convention so declared last week.

SAYS IT WILL PASS.

Senator Mitchell Has Hopes for the Success of the Wilson Bill.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 9.—Senator John L. Mitchell came to this city yesterday to do what he could to aid in the resumption of the Marine bank. In an interview he said: "My belief is, that the bill will ultimately pass the house in its present form. It will go to the senate finance committee, and there will be plenty of time to talk on the various amendments."

In regard to the income tax bill Mr. Mitchell said: "I do not know that it will pass when the tariff bill does, but I would not oppose it. To my mind the taxing of incomes is the most perfect and just system of taxation."

May Follow Dr. Briggs.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—A meeting of no importance, according to Dr. Charles A. Briggs, was held at his house last night. It lasted until after midnight. There was a rumor that some action would be taken on the proposition that Union Theological seminary sever all connection with the general assembly of the Presbyterian church. A reporter asked Dr. Briggs what was the result of the meeting, but he declined to talk and said it was merely a meeting of friends.

Riot in the Ottumwa Jail.

OTTUMWA, Iowa, Jan. 9.—A riot occurred at the County jail last evening. Thirty persons got angry because they were refused more supper. They broke up all the furniture in the jail, tore off the cell doors, threw them into the corridor and pelted the family of the turnkey with coal, which they hurled through the "chuckhole." A platoon of police was called and quelled the disturbance. The ringleaders were locked in close cells.

GIFTS FOR JANESVILLE POOR.

Associated Charities Return Thanks For Recent Donations.

Again we have occasion to express through the columns of the press the thanks of the associated charities for the following generous donations.

Seventy dollars, the proceeds of the recent party given by the traveling men's association.

Thirteen dollars and fifty cents the result of the base ball game between the traveling men and the fire police.

Twenty-five pairs of shoes the kind gift of F. S. Wiaslow the "hustling grocer."

These gifts were all the more acceptable coming at this season of the year when so many are in sore need. While so many have been relieved through the association, there are still numerous families in need and we trust that this public acknowledgment of these generous donations will serve as an incentive to others to "go and do likewise."

Wedding at North Johnstown.

NORTH JOHNSTOWN, Jan. 9.—On New Years day at high noon occurred the marriage of James Sprackling, of Richmond, and Miss Chattie, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Austin, of North Johnstown. The ceremony was performed by Rev. I. S. Jones, in the presence of near relatives of the contracting parties. On Thursday they went to housekeeping in their new home recently purchased of Mr. Johnson, and as they have entered the matrimonial sea their many friends wish them a safe and pleasant voyage through life. On New Years day as the children of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rice were enjoying a reunion at the old home, their joy was saddened by their oldest son Della having both bones of his right leg broken, as he and his brother Fern were wrestling with each other. He is doing nicely, but it will be some time before he can be removed to his home. No school in the Palmer district last week, on account of the illness of the teacher. Mrs. James Harris is staying in Whitewater with her sister, Mrs. Hulse since Mr. Hulse's death. Edna Fuller is able to ride out again. Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Barker spent New Years at Millard. Johnstown Medal Contest.

At the gold medal contest held at Johnstown Center, Dec. 27, three competent persons acted as judges. Papers showed careful and critical markings, but upon examination of them a mistake was discovered in averaging. The papers were then returned to them for correction. This they gladly did. The mistake, though small necessitates a change in their decision, as the figures show that the medal rightfully belongs, consequently will be awarded to number one of the contesting class. SUPERINTENDENT.

The usual treatment of catarrh is very unsatisfactory, as thousands can testify. Proper local treatment is positively necessary to success, but many, if not most, of the remedies in general use afford but temporary relief. A cure certainly cannot be expected from snuffs, powders, douches and washes. Ely's Cream Balm, which is so highly commended, is a remedy which combines the important requisites of quick action, specific curative power, with perfect safety and pleasantness to the patient. All druggists sell it.

ROYAL HONORS.

Royal Baking Powder Leads as Usual—in Strength and Value 20 Per Cent Above Its Nearest Competitor.

The Royal Baking Powder has the enviable record of having received the highest award for articles of its class—greatest strength, purest ingredients, most perfectly combined—wherever exhibited in competition with others. In the exhibitions of former years, as at the centennial in Paris, Vienna and the various state and industrial fairs, where it has been exhibited, judges have invariably the Royal Baking Powder the highest honors.

At the recent World's fair the examinations for the baking powder awards were made by the experts of the chemical division of the Agricultural Department at Washington. The official report of the tests of the baking powders which were made by this department for the specific purpose of ascertaining which was the best, and which has been made public, shows the leavening strength of the Royal to be 160 cubic inches of carbonic gas per ounce of powder. Of the cream of tartar baking powders exhibited at the fair, the next highest in strength thus tested contained but 133 cubic inches of leavening gas. The other powders gave an average of 111. The Royal, therefore, was found to be 20 per cent greater leavening strength than its nearest competitor, and 44 per cent above the average of all the other tests. Its superiority in other respects, however, in the quality of the food it makes as to fineness, delicacy and wholesomeness, could not be measured by figures.

It is these high qualities known and appreciated by the women of the country for so many years, that have caused the sales of the Royal Baking powder, as shown by statistics, to exceed the sales of all other baking powders combined.

A Peculiar Bequest.

A Christiania newspaper, which does not give itself up to the comic element, relates that a Danish lawyer named Nikolson bequeathed the whole of his property to trustees to be employed in the purchase of bicycles for the use of children attending school, and part of the money is to go toward paying a teacher to train the boys in bicycle riding. The validity of the will has been disputed by the sons of the testator, who refuse to acknowledge it, so that it is still a question of doubt whether the children will reap the benefit of the strange bequest. That the testator was sincere enough, and that he recognized in the wheel untold blessings which might have escaped the observation of minds of less acumen, the concluding portion of the will should go to prove. It says: "I have always found a bicycle a capital protection against the impertinence of those people who persist in stopping you in your walk to spin a long yarn in the hot sun or in the biting east wind. My machine, unlike a horse, never shied once; and in my drives I have had no need to entrust life and limb to the tender mercies of a coachman."

Impositions in Literature.

So many forgeries of ancient books have been perpetrated that some critics have been led to suppose that all the ancient writings we possess are but impostures.

COIN, NOT CABBAGE CIRCUS MEN ASKED.

CAUSE OF WILL REYNOLDS' TROUBLE LAST SEASON.

Plenty Of People Wanted To Trade Garden Truck For Tickets But the Showman Couldn't Pay Performers With Pumpkins Or Rustlers With Rutabagas.

Will Reynolds' circus will again take the road and delight the sensibilities of the "cornfield sailor" and his equally curious brother the "city chap." The Rockford showman upon whom hard luck, panics, floods, assignments, gun carrying creditors and other trifles ruffled not, was in Janesville yesterday. Many Janesville people know him because he has showed here, and because Ford F. Rowe, the Merchants' Protective Association promoter, was his right hand man and confidential adviser. Mr. Reynolds was returning from Baraboo when he was here, and at that town he had been conferring with the Ringling Brothers which ended by his purchasing their cooking car and entire outfit. He also negotiated for some animals. Reynolds' beasts have been dying right and left this winter. A pair of Russian wolves and a lion have already turned up their toes and have been buried with circus honors and two of the camels now have the distemper. The horses are being wintered at the Reynolds farm near this city and the elephants have their trunks packed at the Reynolds barn during the cold snap. It costs $6 per day to feed the elephants alone.

People Had No Cash. Mr. Reynolds says he will run his own hotel the coming season. He will keep some of the old attaches, but will fill up mostly with new people and is corresponding with a number of celebrities in the circus world with that end in view.

He says the past season was a tough one on him physically. That besides a good sized roll of money he dropped, sixty-five pounds avoirdupois, most of it in the sunny southland. He says the south is full of people, but they were short on cash this year. Sometimes ten thousand people would turn out to see the parade but often only a hundred or two could find the price of admission. People would come from miles and miles in the country and offer to trade turnips, eggs, butter, rutabagas and all kinds of garden truck for a ticket to the show. Will could eat some of the stuff offered, but he couldn't pay the high kickers' salary with hen fruit and the clown refused to accept cabbage in lieu of coin. So the turnips tendered were declined with thanks and the show moved on in search of cash patrons.

JUDGE WAS SCORED BY A GREASY BUM.

HE DENIED THAT HIS FACE WAS FAMILIAR.

Was Somewhat Careful of the Company He Kept—Mr. Dolly's Little Jokelet—Conductor Didn't Dare Try It—Bad Butter Burlesqued—Why Theodore Thomas Plays Not the Cornet.

Chicago Police Justice—Your face seems familiar. Don't I know you? Greasy Old Bum—I don't think you do, your honor; I'm a little perticker about the company I keep.—Chicago Tribune.

He Was Willing.

Miss Keedick (after his proposal)—I'll be a sister to you.

Mr. Dolly—That's right. Every true wife ought to be assister to her husband.—Truth.

Not a Flatterer.

She—All of which only convinces me that you married me for my money. He—Well, it may not seem probable, but I honestly loved you.—Life.

SHE WOULD MAKE AN EFFORT.

"Now, Neddie, learn your lessons and mamma will love you."

"Will you love me as much as you do the pug?"

"I'll try to, dear."—Demorest's Magazine.

Amending the Motion.

He was a small man, the conductor of an electric car, and she was a large, powerful-looking woman.

"I want you to put me off at Dundas street," said she.

He viewed her majestic figure for a moment and replied:

"Madam, I will stop the car and let you get off."—Toronto Empire.

A Firm Foundation.

The lady had implied a doubt as to the statement of the dairyman.

"Madam," he said, indignantly, "my reputation rests upon my butter."

"Well," she replied, testily, "you needn't get ugly about it. The foundation is strong enough to keep it up forever."—Detroit Free Press.

The Only Possibility.

"Binkins went out hunting this morning."

"All alone?"

"Yes, didn't even take a dog."

"'Spose he'll kill anything?"

"No. Not unless he gets melancholy and commits suicide."—Washington Star.

A True Conservative.

"I see that you have been elected a member of the chamber of deputies, and I would like to know what policy you intend to adopt."

"Oh, I shall do as the others do. In other words, I am determined not to swerve one inch from the path of tradition."—Paris Figaro.

Evolution of Football.

Father—How did your football game result to-day?

Boy—The Bungtowners beat us.

"You have always beaten them before, haven't you?"

"Yes, but to-day they had a trained billy goat in their team."—Good News.

The World Grows No Better.

"If Theodore Thomas is a musician," said Banks, "why is it that nobody ever saw him play a cornet, for instance?"

"He doesn't have to," said Rivers.

"He can always find some subs to toot."—Chicago Tribune.

A Thought Disclosed.

Tom—I can read your thoughts. I know just what you are thinking about now.

Daisy (blushing indignantly)—Nonsense! If you did propose I'd refuse you. So there.—Chicago Record.

The Advantages of a Go-Between.

"You must tell him I don't love him."

"Why don't you tell him so yourself?"

"Oh, he would believe it if I told him."—Life.

Could Not Help It.

Read Lotts—Do you believe in the divine rights of kings?

Jack Potts—I have to. I ran up against four of them the other day.—N. Y. Herald.

Prettily Put.

Priscilla—How do you think my hands look in these mousquetaire gloves?

Prunella—Oh, immense!—Truth.

The Cook's Question.

I wonder if his heart is fried?—He calls here every night.

I wonder—are his calls inspired by love or appetite?—Puck.

In Training.

Barrie—Curry hit me for a V to-day. Strange—He tried to hit me, but I managed to parry the blow.—Truth.

"Henry, dear, have you had a hard day? You look tired. There are your slippers right by the fire."

"Maria, please don't let this go any further. I can't afford so much devotion this year. Collections are slow and you simply can't have that."

"Brute!"

"That's better. I think I can live up to that title without going bankrupt."

SELECTION OF PIECES.

This is of the Utmost Importance to Both Pupil and Teacher.

As regards the selection of pieces, teachers too often make the mistake of choosing those too difficult for their pupils. They forget that a simple melody well played is preferable at all times to an ambitious piece whose difficulties cause the performer to halt and stumble. An examination of the musical portfolio of our average young ladies by one uninitiated would lead him to suppose them performers of the highest caliber. Liszt, Rubinstein, Raff and, in fact, every famous concert composer will be found represented, while the owner thereof, most likely, will be unable to play even one bar of their compositions correctly.

The Strauss waltz mania that swept over this country some years ago must be held responsible for the checking of many a promising student's advancement. These waltzes, never originally intended for the piano, contain difficulties beyond the grasp of ordinary performers. Written for orchestra, their arrangement in piano form could not be otherwise than impracticable, so far as the aiding of a correct style of playing is concerned, and also unthankful as regards results. For an average value of concert, written for the instrument, though apparently from a cursory glance of a much higher grade, will, on close examination, not alone be found easier, but also incomparably more brilliant and effective.

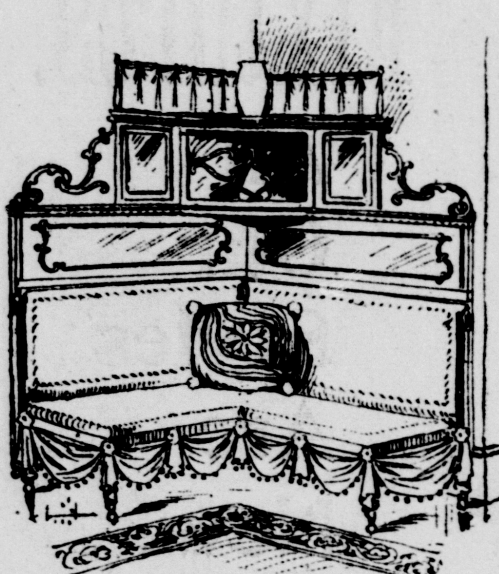

To those whose style is not yet formed, and who are anxious to obtain a perfect technique, The Musical World advises that they avoid all arrangements for orchestral scores or adaptations originally written for other instruments. This of course does not apply to transcriptions made by eminent writers. The judicious selection of pieces, studies, etc., is of the utmost importance, not alone as applying to the welfare of the pupil, but also molding the material success of the teacher. It is well for both parties if a happy medium is here adopted. Many go to the most opposite extremes.

To the child who is just learning to read, we do not offer Shakespeare; neither does the father, when he desires to give his son some relaxation from his schoolbooks, select one of George Eliot's works. This would only weary his young mind, and instead of stimulating serve to check whatever is luxuriant there. The same rules apply to music. To appreciate what is noble in this art, a gradual cultivation is necessary. Yet the means to arrive at such an end must be most varied. It will not do to pursue a cut and dried course, applied to all, irrespective of difference in character or talent. One must be led, another stimulated; this one restrained and apparently held back by force; all different, yet all brought nearer to perfection by ways seemingly opposite.

The Fad For Cozy Corners.

Everywhere nowadays one is confronted with schemes for the fitting up of cozy corners and odd nooks. It is a fad in furnishing that has certainly taken hold among the fair sex, and judging from present indications will show no diminution in the immediate future.

For this fashion we are undoubtedly indebted to our English cousins, among whom this feature in furnishing has attained even greater popularity than on this side of the water. The English upholsterer now sells the "cozy corner" as an article of furniture easily removed.

COZY CORNER FOR PARLOR OR HALL.

able from one house to another. These, however, are rather too expensive for the average purse, and therefore the person having but a limited amount of money to expend in this direction may be obliged to study ways and means to obtain the result at a smaller outlay. This, happily, one can easily do by the choice of one of the numerous schemes available for production by amateur effort. Such, for instance, as the one here reproduced from The Decorator and Furnisher, which says: "There is one thing, however, in the choice of a design that should be kept in view, and that is to choose something in keeping with the personality of the mistress of the house."

"One should never lose sight of the question of utility, and remember that satisfactory results are attainable only by the judicious selection of the right things for the right place—both as regards form and color—and not by a multiplicity of objects thrown together haphazard. What in the most artistic schemes of furnishing may appear to be the unstudied carelessness is indeed the result of the most profound study, reinforced of course by natural good taste."

Scotch Macaroons.

The Baker's Helper gives this formula: Two and one-half pounds of sugar, 13 pounds of lard, 5 eggs, 2 ounces of soda, 2 quarts of molasses, 1 pint of water, 4 pounds of flour, 3 pounds of crumbs. Make icing with eggs, with the addition of a little cream of tartar. Make icing quite thin, so as to spread easy, roll out dough, spread icing over it and cut in small strips about 1 1/2 inch by 3 inches. The cakes will spread and icing will break on top like macaroons. Oven must be moderate. Should icing not break well, add more cream of tartar. A little experimenting will make the prettiest cookies ever made.

NEW DRESS SKIRT IN MANY DESIGNS.

HOW TO SHAPE AND HOW TO TRIM THEM.

The Fashionable Gored Bell, the New Circular and the Box Plaited Skirts—Trimings Adapted To Tall Slender Women and To Stout Women.

The skirt is an important feature of a lady's dress. It must not only be cut after a perfect pattern, but must be made so as to hang just right. Then, too, there are skirts for stout women and skirts for slender ones; skirts for heavy materials and skirts for soft, clinging fabrics. The wise woman considers all these matters when selecting a pattern for her own dress skirts.

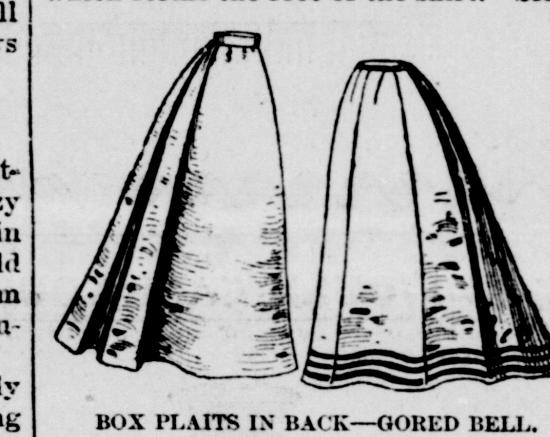

The skirts of the present season, while hanging in fuller plaits at the back, do not stand out so much at the sides as they did in the spring. They are slightly eased into the waist, and one model has three gores at the back that hang each in a box plait. The gored bell skirt is a favorite for dresses in crepon silk and similar fabrics. This skirt consists of front and three gores. The seam, where it fastens at the back, is cut on the cross, while the center of each breadth runs straight. This causes striped material to make vandykes at the seams. The hem is interlined with either coarse muslin, crinoline or canvas. In silk this skirt takes eight yards and measures round the hem about 4 1/2 yards.

While the skirts of some dresses are elaborately trimmed, others are quite plain. Some gowns are made with overskirts; others have a long overskirt simulated by cutting the dress material into points outlined by a heavy row of braid. Underneath is placed a facing of velvet, which forms the foot of the skirt. Slender women oftentimes adopt a trimming of passementerie placed flat around the skirt at the hips, with one row of the same to be used as a foot trimming.

BOX PLAITS IN BACK—GORED BELL.

A graceful arrangement for a silk dress consists of a wide flounce 10 inches deep, with a heading of three tiny silk ruffles overlapping each other, these same ruffles to be used around the skirt below the hips if the wearer is very tall and thin; otherwise avoid any trimmings on the skirt above the knees. The new circular skirt is a very graceful one when trimmed with fur or other flat garniture around the bottom. Tall women also add a second row around the skirt about where a short overskirt would fall. Braid or other flat trimming placed in waving rows around the bottom of the skirt affords a pleasing style of garniture.

Recipes For Potato Salad.

Here are two recipes for potato salad from Good Housekeeping. You can use the first one when in a hurry. It consists in boiling the potatoes in salted water, letting them stand till almost cool, cutting them into dice, adding a generous portion of butter, half an onion shredded fine, 3 tablespoonfuls of vinegar, all mixed well together and served cold.

The second recipe is for a salad that presents an attractive appearance in addition to being appetizing: Mix potatoes and onions, put them in a salad dish and pour over them a French dressing made with 2 tablespoonfuls of salad oil or butter, the yolk of an egg and 3 tablespoonfuls of vinegar, mixing carefully the egg and butter and adding vinegar gradually. The dish is then garnished with slices of hard boiled egg and sprigs of parsley.

For all forms of nasal catarrh where there is dryness of the air passages with what is commonly called "stuffing up," especially when going to bed, Ely's Cream Balm gives immediate relief. Its benefits to me have been priceless. A. G. Case, M. D., Millwood, Kas.

One of my children had a very bad discharge from her nose. Two physicians prescribed, but without benefit. We tried Ely's Cream Balm, and much to our surprise, there was a marked improvement. We continued using the balm and in a short time the discharge was cured. O. A. Garry, Corang, N. Y.

A Matter of Degree.

Admirer—Daisy, Daisy, give me your answer, do! I'm half crazy—

Admired—You flatter yourself!—Truth.

Judge—Have you anything to offer the court before sentence is passed?

Prisoner—No, your honor. My lawyer took my last shilling.—Puck.

The Forum

"The Greatest of all our Periodicals."

The foremost men of the world write the literature of contemporary activity for THE FORUM.

This reduction in price at once gave THE FORUM the largest circulation ever reached by a periodical of its class—exceeding all expectations.

To many thoughtful people, the price of The Forum has hitherto been prohibitory; indeed all the great Reviews have been too high in price for the masses of intelligent readers. But now the number of readers of thoughtful literature—men and women who wish really to know what is going on in the world outside the narrow limits of particular sects and parties—is great enough in the United States to warrant so revolutionary a reduction in price. The Forum discusses important subjects, but it is not dull. The literature of contemporary activity is, in fact, the most interesting of all literature. American citizenship implies that a man shall know the opinions of the foremost men and the latest great achievements in every direction of activity.

SIZE AND QUALITY UNCHANGED.

The Forum is now as cheap as the magazines of mere entertainment. THE CHEAPEST, THE LARGEST, THE BEST, OF THE GREAT REVIEWS.

G. A. R. NOTICE

We take this opportunity of informing our subscribers that the new Commissioner of Pensions has been appointed. He is an old soldier, and we believe that soldiers and their heirs will receive justice at his hands. We do not anticipate that there will be any radical changes in the administration of pension affairs under the new regime.

We would advise, however, that U. S. soldiers, sailors, and their heirs, take steps to make application at once, if they have not already done so, in order to secure the benefit of the early filling of their claims in case there should be any future pension legislation. Such legislation is seldom retrospective. Therefore it is of great import that applications be filed in the department at the earliest possible time.

If U. S. Soldiers, or their widowed children, or parents desire information in regard to pension matters, that should write to the Press Claims Company at Washington, D. C., and they will prepare and send the necessary application, if they find them entitled under the numerous laws enacted for their benefit. Address:

Press Claims Company,

THISTLE EXTERMINATION.

Southern congressmen vote very readily for large appropriations to improve the lower Mississippi river and so, incidentally, improve the value of river plantations by relieving them of the destructive overflows. Every million spent to keep the big river in a definite channel is so much profit to the individual land owners.

But when a bill like that introduced by Senator Hansbrough to exterminate the deadly Russian thistle by national action comes before congress, some southern member always promptly objects and declares that the people of the states ought to exterminate thistles and that the general government should have nothing to do with it. Such objection has been made to the Hansbrough bill by Senator George, of Mississippi, who has prevailed upon Secretary Morton, of the agricultural department, to oppose the measure. These very men who babble about the necessity for leaving such matters to the states, are in favor of government irrigation of land and of big appropriations for the lower Mississippi improvement.

It is to be hoped that congress will ignore the views of the secretary of agriculture and the chairman of the senate committee on agriculture and look into the merits and urgency of the Russian thistle bill. There is abundant evidence that this pest is a deadly enemy of agriculture. Its progress in the northwest thus far has been rapid and destructive. It threatens every farmer in the Dakotas and Minnesota. Its destructive invasion will not stop at these states. It has advanced with the deadly precision of a vast army of grass hoppers. It has struck root in Wisconsin through seeds dropped from Dakota wheat. It will ere long, devastate Secretary Morton's own state of Nebraska, and when he realizes what the Russian thistle really is he will doubtless be as anxious as anybody to successfully fight it.

This thistle fight is one which the agricultural department must take up as earnestly as it has taken up the fight against cattle diseases. There is just as much urgency in the thistle case as in the cattle disease case. The thistle is worse than any cattle disease, because it makes the land unavailable for cropping or pasturage. This fact cannot be evaded. The bill of Senator Hansbrough is justified by the actual, menacing conditions. It should be passed without hesitation.

A PICTURE FROM LIFE.

Here Is Something So Perfectly True to Nature.

That Many People Will Recognize It As Their Own.

Read It and See If It Is Not Just What You Yourself Would Say.

Now and then we hear something that is so perfectly and exactly true to nature that its description by one person would be almost exactly as most other people would give it.

The following is a case in point, and you will see that the description would almost exactly tally with your own. The lady's name is Mrs. P. J. Swift, and she resides at 2,798 Washington Street, Boston, Mass.

"Four years ago," she said, "I was in a position of complete physical and nervous prostration, had but little appetite, severe indigestion, stomach distended with gas, constipation, palpitation of the heart, sleeplessness, pain in back of the neck and base of the brain, and was so nervous and despondent that life was a burden. As a result of this condition, other weaknesses peculiar to my sex fell upon me, until I was utterly wretched.

"After much medical treatment and constant failure, I was induced to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. It was in a faint hearted way and with little hope, but I soon began to sleep better, my digestion improved, the pain in my head became less severe and I gradually gained strength until I felt as if I had been extricated from a pit of abject darkness and despair and merged into the sunlight. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy saved me! Very many of my friends to whom I have recommended the remedy can attest to similar results in their own cases.

"It is truly a wonderful medicine and might well be called the 'Woman's Friend'."

Another lady, Miss Annie Smith, of 239 East 87th St., New York City, says:

"I have suffered severely with nervous headache and palpitation of the heart for the past three years, and tried most every kind of medicine, but failed to obtain any relief until a friend recommended Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

"I am very happy to say, after using two bottles, I have found a decided improvement, as I sleep well nights and my heart does not trouble me as it did, and I feel like an entirely different person."

The above cases describe accurately the feelings of thousands of women, and if they will use Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy they will recover their health and strength and enjoy life once more. It is purely vegetable and harmless.

Moreover, this wonderful medicine has something to give everybody confidence in its value which most remedies lack, the fact that it is the discovery and prescription of an eminent physician, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th street, New York, who is the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases. Dr. Greene can be consulted free of charge, personally or by letter.

THE ASHTON TRIAL WELL UNDER WAY.

THE FIRST WITNESSES WERE EXAMINED THIS MORNING

George Schaller Tells Of Making the Model Sink and County Engineer Bleedorn Tells of Distances and Location of Buildings, While Rabyor, Relates What He Saw.

The real trial of the Stone murder case began in the circuit court this morning when the first witness was sworn, he being George Schaller, of this city. The court room was filled, nearly every seat being taken. There was an air of interest on every face for sensational developments are expected any day, and both state and defense are said to have plenty of ammunition left in the store room that has not yet been used.

Taking the testimony of old Mrs. Preston at the Stone farm yesterday, developed but one change in her recital. She swore that her stating that Mrs. Stone knelt and prayed by her bedside the night before the murder was a mistake, although she had testified so at the coroner's inquest.

The jury, attorneys and court looked over the whole farm and the buildings, the spot where the Catfish river empties into the Rock as well as other geographical points that will come up in the case. Nothing new, with the exception of the change in Mrs. Preston's testimony, was developed.

Schaller Measures the Sink.

George Schaller the wood worker in the employ of J. B. Green was the first witness sworn this morning, he being the workman who made the fac-simile section of the sink that is used in demonstrating to the jury. Mr. Schaller swore that he had visited the Stone farm and made the sink from actual measurements. The door leading to the cistern was 13 1/2 inches by 19 1/2 inches. The depth of the cupboard from front to rear at the door was 23 1/2 inches and the width was 18 1/2 inches. From the bottom of the basin to the threshold of the door was 24 1/2 inches. The joists under the floor were eight inches. From the level of the floor to the lower edge of the joists was 10 1/2 inches. The pipe ran down the inside of the cistern and was 8 1/2 inches from the wall. The joists rested on a stone wall that projected about six inches. O. G. Bleedorn was sworn to corroborate Mr. Schaller's testimony, he having helped in the measuring. He had also made a survey and plat of the farm and the buildings thereon. The mouth of the Catfish river was 107 1/2 rods from the front door of the house, these facts, evidently being intended largely for future use in demonstrating how far a voice could be heard or how far a person would have to walk to go from one building to another and to locate these points with accuracy.

Engineer Bleedorn's Testimony.

The detective's room he said was at the head of the stairs and there are two ways of getting from this room to the dining room by the main stairs or by the back stairs, the former route being much more direct. In this way the construction of the building as well as their location, the number of rooms etc. were detailed. The cistern walls were two feet thick; the cistern itself being 17x13 feet and ten feet deep.

Mr. Hyzer then cross examined Mr. Bleedorn in relation to the location of the rooms and how plainly a sound made in one could be heard in another his questions pointing especially to how plainly the detective could hear from his room, the noise made in the dining room below. If the door were open there could be two unobstructed passages between the two rooms and also between the sleeping room of the hired men and the room where the crime is alleged to have been committed.

This was about the only point that could interest an "outsider" the other figures being dry and uninteresting.

Rabyor Helped Search.

Martin Rabyor, who was in the employ of Mr. Ashton at the time of the murder was next sworn and stated that Ed. Ablett, Seth Pieno and George Schoolcraft worked for Ashton at the same time. His sleeping room was in the Stone house, Edward Ablett sleeping with him. Alvin Cady also slept in that room, Rabyor being put there at Mrs. Stone's request. The night before the death of Mrs. Stone the occupants of the house were Mrs. Stone, Mrs. Preston, Detective Burt and the men in the room with the witness. Rabyor located the rooms of the house upon the plans of the house and said that he got up about half past 5 on the morning of the murder, Ablett also getting up at the same time. They went down the back stairs together and into the dining room. Mrs. Stone was coming out of the pantry.

The Detective Had Been Out.

"I beat you up this morning" she said "Yes," answered Ablett, who then asked Mrs. Stone if that man (meaning the detective) was out last night.

"She said yes; he was down stairs."

The witness then asked her if the detective came in before or after Cady who had also been out, and she said "after."

Mrs. Stone was working around the stove. A few minutes later the witness and Ablett went to the barn. Mrs. Stone was still in the dining room when they left. As a usual thing they did not find her there on Sundays. They usually got up about 5 o'clock a. m. On the way to the barn the witness and Ablett saw Mr. Ashton at the well drawing water. Nothing was said to Ashton by either. His duty at the barn was feeding the horses, and he and Ablett were at the barn, he thought, about three-quarters of an hour. The witness did not see Ashton while he was at the barn.

Saw Ashton Leave For Conway's.

He had seen Mrs. Stone feed the chickens south of the house, but he did not remember what time in the day she usually did it. When the two left the barn they went to Ashton's for breakfast. He next saw Ashton at breakfast, and after the meal the witness and Ablett went back to the barn and the other two left, one going to Conway's and the other to another barn. Shortly afterward Ablett told the witness that Mrs. Stone was missing, and soon after they joined in the search for her, continuing it until 11 o'clock. After breakfast, but before he heard of her disappearance, he saw Ashton hitch up and go to Conway's; this being just after breakfast. He was at Ashton's house when the body was found, and heard of it when he returned to the Stone house.

DON'T ATTEMPT THE IMPOSSIBLE.

Janesville People Are Quick to Detect Fraudulent Advertising.

The sober sense of intelligent people invariably returns a just verdict. If a business man who is doing a legitimate business advertises a clearing sale at prices that are attractive, the public know that his part of the contract will be carried out. If the same man should advertise goods at half price the public would be slow to believe in him because they know that he could not do business on that basis and live.

The success that is being achieved by Dr. H. A. McChesedy is not due to the fact that he is a good advertiser, but to the more important fact that he does not advertise impossibilities. He claims to have a thorough knowledge of his specialty, namely diseases of the eye, ear, nose, throat and lungs. He does not claim to be a cure-all, and does not treat diseases outside of his specialty, but he does claim to possess a thorough knowledge of the class of diseases that he treats and this claim is endorsed by a host of people who have been relieved by his skillful treatment. He is making a record in Janesville of which any physician would feel proud. His cases are almost invariably chronic and of long standing and yet without exceptions his patients insist that they are being cured. Call and see him at his office in the Wilcox block, East Milwaukee street, opposite Hotel Myers.

AVAILANCES PRODUCED BY RAILWAYS.

A correspondent to the London Times records a curious and altogether unexpected result of the tunneling operations in St. Gothard is a lawsuit instituted by the inhabitants of the adjacent valleys. They sue the federal government for damages caused by the great increase of avalanches which constantly thunder down the mountain side, produced, it is presumed, by the explosions of dynamite more than by the vibrations of passing trains in the lower tunnels of the railway. Many witnesses, who have lived in the neighborhood since the early part of the century, will swear to the greatly augmented number and force of the avalanches that now constantly sweep destruction down the mountain. The first hearing of this novel case was lately heard before the federal judges assembled at Bellinzona. We believe there is no instance in this country of an avalanche produced by railway service.

With these the streets of Peking are to be decorated for a distance of forty miles. The queen regent has also decreed that the customary birthday gifts annually presented by the provincial mandarins be omitted this year and the money devoted to the relief of the poor, who have suffered much from the unusually severe winter season.

CONSULTATION AND EXAMINATION FREE.

DR. MCCHESNEY'S good work speaks for itself. Hundreds are now under his care and all getting well. Read what some of our prominent citizens say:

CITY TREASURER MURPHY HAPPY.

JANESVILLE, WIS., Dec. 18. To whom it may concern: For a long time I was a great sufferer with catarrh. A mass of corruption and mucus was constantly filling in my throat and blowing out of my nostrils. I was finally attacked with deafness in one ear. There was a flow of matter from the ear and I was told by physicians that the drum was burst. About ten days ago I consulted Dr. McChesney and he assured me that my ear was all right and a cure could be readily cured. I immediately placed myself under his skillful treatment, and I am highly pleased with what he has done for me. My hearing is already improved and my catarrh is rapidly leaving me. I would advise all who are afflicted with catarrh to call and be examined by Dr. McChesney. I consider him an honorable gentleman and a skillful physician.

M. MURPHY.

EDITOR SPENCER OF THE GAZETTE Will Soon Throw Away His Spectacles.

Mr. Spencer has suffered constantly with his eyes for a great many years. He has been treated by the best Chicago oculists but had to wear the strongest glasses and then at times his eyes would not perform their duty. About ten days ago Dr. McChesney began treating Mr. Spencer's eyes. From the start Mr. Spencer has felt much relieved, and today he can read quite well without the aid of glasses—something he has not done for ten years. In conversation with him today he said: "The doctor has done my eyes more good in the past ten days than all the other physicians did in years. I can see quite well without the aid of glasses. I feel very much encouraged, and if Dr. McChesney keeps up the good work I will be able to throw my glasses away in a very short time."

DEAF EIGHT YEARS BUT CURED.

Mrs. May L. Smith, wife of Fred L. Smith, foreman of the Janesville Machine Co., gives the following testimonial for publication: To Whom it May Concern—For over eight years I have been totally deaf; have tried several eminent eastern specialists with no results. I had given up all hopes of ever hearing but learning of Dr. McChesney's success in treating deafness I concluded I would try him, and I am more than thankful I did, as I am rapidly regaining my hearing and in fact feel much better physically than I have for years. Dr. McChesney is a marvel. He has done for me what all others failed in an! I can say words are inadequate to express what Dr. McChesney has done for me, he has even done more than he said he would or could.

MRS. MAY L. SMITH.

FIREMAN JOE SHEKEY IS CURED of Catarrh, After Untold Misery.

To Whom it May Concern—For over two years I have been a great sufferer with catarrh, having headache, dripping of phlegm in my throat, mouth tasting bad; my eyes were seriously affected from the effects of catarrh. I concluded to try Dr. McChesney, and have treated with him now only about three weeks, but I can say the change he has made in me and my feelings is marvelous. He is a gentleman, and I know he thoroughly understands catarrh, as he relieved me of untold misery and suffering. I would advise all who have catarrh to consult him, as he will surely benefit you.

JOE SHEKEY,

CONTRACTOR JONES CAN HEAR.

John W. Jones, the Contractor and Builder on Washington Street Will Soon be Cured of Deafness.

In conversation with Mr. Jones the other day he said: "I am treating with Dr. McChesney for catarrh and deafness. I have been a sufferer in this respect for ten or twelve years. Have had many physicians treat me, but all in vain. I came to Dr. McChesney about two weeks ago and being thoroughly impressed with him I trusted my case to him. He is curing me. I am getting well fast. No other person ever did me any good, but I feel safe in saying Dr. McChesney will cure my catarrh and deafness."

DR. MCCHESNEY IS YOUR FRIEND. If he can do you good he will tell you. It will cost you nothing to consult him. OFFICE PARLORS in Ogden block, opposite Hotel Myers. OFFICE HOURS: 8:30 to 11 a. m., 1 to 5 p. m., 6:30 to 7:30 p. m. SUNDAYS: 9 to 11 a. m.

AN HONORED NAME.

GEN. SHERIDAN'S WIDOW AND THE CHILDREN.

Reside in the Quiet Home at Washington and in View of the Great Warrior's Tomb in Famous Arlington.

[Washington Correspondence.]

THE NAME OF Sheridan is closely linked with all the pomp and splendor of a victorious general. One thinks of him at the head of dauntless men sweeping down between the blue Virginia hills, his pathway lit by the flames of burning houses, and his stern hand carrying havoc and destruction.

But when one sees the pretty home where he passed his last days, his young widow and her family of happy children, somehow the picture changes.

MRS. P. H. SHERIDAN.

The smoke-grimed warrior's face seems by a kindly touch transformed into loving tenderness. Up on the green summit of Arlington the dead soldier lies surrounded by his sleeping men. And down in the beautiful city below are those who will take his name of deathless fame down to an admiring posterity.

The Sheridan home is the only house in a triangular lot formed by the intersection of several streets with an avenue, and the situation is one of the most desirable in town. In the immediate neighborhood are many of the prominent senators and foreign ministers' mansions, and the giddy whirl of social life reaches its vortex in this center of wealth and fashion. The exterior is of plain red brick, but the building is large and broken up into artistic architecture that relieves its plainness. Within the rooms are cut into all shapes and quaint corners that enhance their picturesqueness.

The hall is handsomely decorated, and prominent among its ornaments are mementoes of Sheridan. On the left of the door stands a marble bust of the general, a large, life-size painting hangs on the wall, and, resting on a wooden support, is a beautiful silver-mounted saddle, made for the general in Mexico. The floor is covered with rich rugs, and the rich hangings

YOUNG PHIL SHERIDAN.

On the right is a cozy dining-room in warm but subdued tones, while directly opposite opens the parlor. This Mrs. Sheridan's dainty taste has converted into a bower of beauty. Its furniture is in keeping with its richness of ornament, and amid the pretty tables and other bric-a-brac are scattered pictures and other souvenirs of the Union leader. Some are paintings, others engravings, and on a handsome stand near the window is a striking bronze. It represents "Sheridan's Ride" and pictures a leaping horse whose rider waves his hat over a face gleaming with the frenzy of battle.

Mrs. Sheridan is the queen of this pretty home, and when seated one afternoon this week in her parlor it was like listening to a new page in our country's history when she told of her famous husband. "I met Gen. Sheridan out west when my father was a member of his staff. That was many years after the war. I have been an 'army girl' all my life, having been born on the frontier between the United States and Mexico. But I was educated east. I can not remember the war, being too young at that time, for the general was many years my senior.

THE SHERIDAN TWINS.

"With most people an entirely incorrect idea of Gen. Sheridan prevails. As I knew him in our home life he was the most quiet of men. His voice was soft and subdued, his manner as gentle as a woman's. In fact, he was a very domestic man, fond of his home and devoted to his children, and, while the mental picture many have formed is that of a bold, dashing warrior, he was in reality nothing of that character in private life.

"See that bronze there," she continued, pointing to the fiery bronze steed and its shouting rider. "That is entirely, as far as I know, a misconception. Instead of becoming wild by excitement, he was always coolest and most quiet in danger. During the later years of his life he met many former foes, whom he esteemed highly. And it speaks well for our country that old animosities seem forgotten and the most prominent positions in our government are held by old soldiers.

"Phil, my only boy, is named for his father. He attends school here in town, but my two girls go to Eton Hall, near Philadelphia, where they are being educated by the sisters—you know we are Catholics. Eton Hall is near the convent recently erected by Miss Drexel, now Mother Katherine, for the education of negro and Indian children. I have lived a great deal in Washington, and am fond of the capital and its society, though I do not take a very active part in its gayeties."

One can easily see that Mrs. Sheridan could not remember the war, for it is very evident that thirty-five years have not passed over her head, and in her pretty face and slender figure one sees all the charms and graces of youth.

Her hair is dark and stylishly arranged about her white brow. Dark gray eyes look out smilingly from a dainty patrician face and her whole air is one of ease and refinement. Her manners are quiet and composed, but one can see that there is no lack of fire in the trim, dark-robed little woman. In a word, she is worthy of the great name she bears.

IS A NOBBY DRESSER.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND IS ALWAYS UP TO DATE.

Of All the Executives He Seems to Have the Keenest Taste For What He Wears—Some Pen Pictures of the Nation's Magistrate.

[Washington Correspondence.]

ALL OUR PRESIDENTS Grover Cleveland seems to have most thoroughly realized the cosmetic effects of dress. By a judicious selection of wearing apparel he has succeeded in making himself seem some inches taller than he is, thus adding dignity to the executive presence, and, moreover, that diminution of fleshiness apparent in him is largely the result of an evident regard for appearances in nearly everything he wears. Yet the President is a conservative dresser. Black is his favorite color and plainness the general effect he appears to aim at, sartorially speaking.

For instance, those citizens who are familiar from personal observation with the President's personal appearance on formal public occasions have noticed an almost invariable uniformity of attire in him. His costume comprises a long, black frock coat, with wide lapels, black waistcoat, wide black trousers and a black necktie, or to adopt an occasional term of Mr. Cleveland's own, "neckkerchief." His overcoat is always very long and always black, and his hat high, glossy (not "shiny") and of the stove pipe pattern. All this, be it understood, when he is seen on what may be called public functions—making a speech, opening an exposition or riding in a procession.

The President likes to wear a flower in his buttonhole, and he prefers the flower white. It is not a rare thing for him to carry his gloves when he has them with him in his hand. It pleases him, too, to hold his hat in his left hand when his fellow citizens have occasion to pass in procession before him, to thrust his right hand into the lapel of his greatcoat and remain in that attitude, smilingly contemplative. It is noticed, also, that the calendar of public mourning is registered in Mr. Cleveland's high black hat. For days after Rutherford B. Hayes' death the presidential tile bore a wide mourning band. When official sorrow grows subdued with time this band shrinks into a ribbon. It may be remarked here that Mr. Cleveland was not pleased when, shortly after his second inauguration, numbers of hats reached the white house, gifts to him from admirers all over the country. Mr. Cleveland would rather buy his own hats.

The shoes worn by the President on these official occasions are square, wide and laced. He has been seen, though, in button shoes. The heels are low and the soles "beveled." Mr. Cleveland does not like "shined" shoes. His foot leather is rubbed and brushed only. Mr. Cleveland pays from $12 to $25 a pair for shoes. He was once fond of the congress make, but seems to have abandoned them now.

MR. CLEVELAND AT HOME.

In dress suits the President follows the prevailing fashion. He is never seen in evening attire exactly at the hour of six, like so many of his emulously "swell" countrymen. Nor does he sport a great length of watch chain, with emphasis of charm and seal. In fact, jewelry is conspicuously absent from the magisterial person. It can be seen on the rare occasions when Mr. Cleveland's necktie becomes loose that his collar button is either a plain gold affair or a white mother-of-pearl one. He wears a small round gold stud in the bosom of his shirt, very inconspicuous and hardly discernible.

His wristbands, or, to use the vulgar term, his "cuffs," are connected by neat links of the metal now in such favor on Wall street. These articles were a birthday gift from Mrs. Perrine, mother of the first lady in the land.

The presidential linen is invariably white, never dotted or lined—that is, on occasions when Mr. Cleveland is seen officially or quasi-officially. The President's linen does not shine with starch. It has what laundrymen call "domestic finish." The shirt bosoms have a wide pleat running up and down, and the shirts themselves open front and back. During the hot afternoons of last summer, when Mr. Cleveland played billiards in the white house billiard room and the magisterial waistcoat was unbuttoned, the initials "G. C." were visible to the naked eye, worked in red in the conventional place for such evidences of ownership.

Mr. Cleveland's socks and half hose—he never wears stockings—are usually dark brown or black. He wears black cloth slippers at home, and when the exigencies of public business necessitate a disturbance of his domesticity he is generally found in a dressing gown of dark blue material. When he dines at home he wears a dress suit, or if it be en famille and informal, Mr. Cleveland wears his frock coat and white necktie. There is no authenticated picture of Mr. Cleveland since he re-entered on the presidency in which a scarf pin forms part of his attire.

What may be termed the President's special outfits include a fisherman's suit and a shooting outfit. Mr. Cleveland possesses a full equipment of oilskins, all yellow, even to the hat, which fits both ways, so to speak, with long projecting blinkers back and front. This suit shelters the wearer from rain and spray, and explains Mr. Cleveland's readiness to go fishing in all sorts of weather. The President's fisherman equipment includes stout boots which come up to the knees, and into which his trousers are tucked. He wears on his right hand a stout leather glove, around which he adroitly twists his line whenever a finny monster is presumed to have "bitten." There is one capacious pocket in the oilskin coat, in which a book is placed. While awaiting the pleasure of the fishes Mr. Cleveland looks at his book.

When the President is out with gun he looks pretty much like the average sportsman. His boots, however, are prodigious affairs. They come up to his hips, being, of course, in sections, as it were. He wears a gray flannel shirt on these expeditions. There are also a corduroy jacket and a belt. Mr. Cleveland is not, however, a Centaur. It does not appear that he ever donned a scarlet coat, white breeches and top boots to chase across country with his fellow creatures for the sake of experiencing the gratification, the ecstasy, the extremity of bliss which comes from being "in at the death."

IN THIS PAPER

Col. E. A. Walton, a well-known oil man, dropped dead at Buffalo, N. Y., while walking on the street with two friends. He had been living in Buffalo for a year. He was the inventor of a process for diluting oil which was said to cheapen it without injuring its quality.

Judge Baker of the United States court at Indianapolis, Ind., decided that the $31,000 put up by Coffin and Stanton of New York as a guarantee of a purchase of refunding bonds should be returned. The purchase was refused on the ground that the city had vitiated the legality of some of the bonds.

Work of Professionals.

BELLEVILLE, Ill., Jan. 9.—The safe in the office of the Western Brewing company was blown open by dynamite at 2 o'clock yesterday. The robbers secured about $2,000 and escaped. The police believe the work was done by professional cracksmen.

Should be "Shooting" with care or some reporter will catch the shot and quote you thus:

FREE TRADE WOULD BE ALL RIGHT
Alderman Carrington Is Anxious to Have the Tariff Question Settled.

"There is no need of people crying hard times," said Alderman Carrington this morning. "This country is bound to prosper, whether it is free trade or protection. If congress would do either one thing or the other the country would be all right. If it is free trade laboring men will get down to a wage system of thirty cents a day, and so economize their living expenses that they will save one third of this amount, and the country will prosper. Manufactured articles are about exhausted, and the supply being short manufacturing must be resumed on some self-sustaining basis."

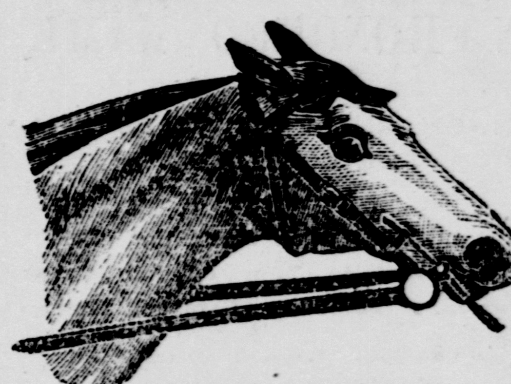

However this is a fair report of what Mr. C. did say but he didn't say it for "print."

What we do believe and what any thinking man or woman must believe is that the country is so rich, so vast, so grand in its resources that no political upheaval, let them upheave as they may, can CRIPPLE us for any great length of time. We believe in a protective tariff. Most sensible people do: some people don't and they are an honest some, and a sensible some too: but we believe beyond everything else in our country, UNDER ALL conditions. If the powers that be will settle on some policy be it TARIFF or FREE we will (as as a people) pull ourselves together and work on the basis that the "powers" elect and we shall win. No policy of government, or those that make laws, can cripple the country FOR LONG. We are not politicians we ARE real state dealers. We have some bargains in our line. Come in talk BUSINESS, let politics alone.

Yours very truly,

GEO. L. & SARAH H. CARRINGTON.
